READINGS FOR TODAY

First Reading — Ex 20:1-17

Psalms — 19:8-11

Lord, you have the words of everlasting life.

Second Reading — 1 Cor 1:22-25

Gospel — Jn 2:13-25

MEDITATION FOR TODAY

Jesus “did not need anyone to testify about human nature. He himself understood it well.” Fallen human nature always attempts to define the meaning of life with something we can measure. That is what the presence of the moneychangers at the temple symbolizes. Their worldly activity in this most sacred place reveals their moral bankruptcy: they prefer riches to a relationship with God. But the commandments of the Lord “are more precious than a heap of purest gold.” They save us from such foolishness and bless us with “the foolishness of God.”

Magnificat, March 2024

In recognition of God’s love and presence in every human being, the members of Saint Stanislaus Parish embrace the challenge to serve God and all His people. In fellowship with one another, we nurture our Catholic Faith through the celebration of the sacraments and reflection on the word of God. As a welcoming and culturally diverse Faith Community, we strive to proclaim and live the good News of Jesus Christ while providing for the spiritual and physical needs of those less fortunate.

Evangelization

March 3– Third Sunday of Lent

Throughout all of Old Covenant History, God reveals his will through his prophets. In today's Readings, we review once again God's guidelines for us that were given in his Ten Commandments. Psalm 19 attests to them reminding us that He has the words of everlasting life. Cor. 1:22-25 proclaims God's wisdom to those who are called proclaiming Christ crucified. Jesus himself lets us know of his impending death and resurrection in today's Gospel...all according to God's will. Father, Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven. Amen.
